For your Consideration:

I had another topic that I wanted to explore this week, but ran out of time to research it properly, so you will have to wait until I next week to see what it was. In the meanwhile, here are two things to consider.

1) Happy Labor Day Weekend. While this date marks the unofficial end of the summer, there is still plenty of good sailing left in the year. Please see the Wianno YC website for details on their fall shoulder season as an example. There could be other good programs out there too; if you are running one this fall, please let me know.

2) While it is still 2018, thoughts have already turned to next year. The 2019 Grand Prix Schedule has been selected and some clubs have confirmed their 2019 Regatta Peg Dates. So over this weekend, get together with the power brokers in your club and start finalizing & sharing those details.
